

The students spent time listening to presentations about school climate and culture. They brainstormed the positive and negative about our school. Then, they learned skills to improve both.

Through work on the ropes course, and small group challenges, our students and staff learned to take risks, be courageous and make the world a better place.

